SWINE.

Judge, N. H. Gentry of Sedalia, Mo., Mr. White, Umpire, and with the entire responsibility for all decisions in this class.

The fat porkers fiercely resented the actions of Judge Gentry. They were always sleepy, for that matter, except when they are eating, and then they only stay awake while their rations hold out. Mr. Gentry slashed them with a keen whet until they squealed heart-brokenly, but they were forced to stand still or walk around until their fine points were noted.

As was universally conceded, D. O. Rideout, Jr., of Draper, swept everything in the Berkshire class. He had the best sow, the best boar and the best sow with pigs, and blue ribbons fluttered last night over a majority of his pens.

The Chester White exhibit was a keen contest between C. J. O. Irwin of Salt Lake and J. N. Allen & Brothers of Draper. The Draper firm won first on sow, first on boar and second on sow and litter. Mr. Irwin was first on sow and litter, second on boar and second on sow.

In the Poland China class Strepper Brothers of Centerville won first on sow, first on boar and first on sow and litter. No other prizes were awarded.

In the Ohio Improved Cheaters, C. J. O. Irwin of Salt Lake stood first on boar and first on sow. These were the only prizes.

FAIR NOTES.

If you want to see the pass field in all his glory longer for a few minutes

In the office of Secretary Bateman. All kinds of excuses for applying for free admissions to the fair are offered, but yesterday came the limit. A well known member of the board of education wanted to know why he hadn't received a season pass. He was asked why he was entitled to free admission, and replied that he had voted to close the schools one day during the fair. The inference was that if he hadn't thought he'd get a season pass he wouldn't have voted for the school holiday. He got the pass and went away triumphant. Secretary Bateman looked tired.

Ninety-nine people out of every hundred who haven't seen the Springer & Stubbs horses at the fair grounds don't know where the grand duchy of Oldenburg is. The connection between the horses and Oldenburg is absolutely correct. They, or some of them, came from there only thirty days ago. Naturally they have been unable to establish any friendships with the other horses at the grounds, and they are only in the Oldenburg tongue, while the rest of the equines neigh only in English. But seigh, those Oldenburgers are great horses, and they are making a great deal of money for their owners. They are not in the competition, which is a good thing for a lot of people. There is Black Santos, a 4-year-old coach horse that won first place at Pueblo a short time ago over an animal that took the lead at the Buffalo Pan-American show. Another beauty is Buy Oldo, a 3-year-old. Lynning & Stubbs' firm has headquarters in Denver—show also a couple of magnificent recently imported Belgian draft horses, Espiro De La Laurier and Fortin de Monti.

J. R. Allen & Brothers have every reason to feel satisfied with yesterday's awards. The Short Horn class. They were eighteenth, first and sixteenth. These well known breeders have twenty-four head of cattle on the grounds. Their value is easily $10,000. By the way, the weight of the prize heifer, Golden Fame's Belle, was erroneously stated recently to be only 1,300 pounds. The fact is that this splendid animal tips the beam at 1,650 pounds, just fifteen pounds less than a ton. When Golden Fame's Belle gets her growth she will be a fairly good sized "critter."

An exhibition that has attracted a vast deal of attention and praise is that of Fairbanks, Morse & Co. The exhibit is of particular interest to Utah people because it shows how machinery can be made to promote irrigation. Pumps of a powerful character that are nevertheless simple of operation and inexpensive in installation are in operation in the Fairbanks, Morse & Co. enclosure, which is over toward the stock section of the grounds. Another interesting feature of the display is a spraying machine, which does the work of a number of men in a much better manner and with considerably less expense than the men could do it for.

The highest praise has been accorded to N. H. Gentry of Missouri and Professor Clark of the Agricultural college of Utah for the eminently fair and able manner in which they have been judging the cattle. Mr. Gentry is a stockman of wide reputation and a specialty of Berkshire hogs and owns what is said to be the finest boar in the world. Mr. Gentry recently refused $1,500 for this animal. Professor Clark, as is well known, is considered an authority on livestock. His work at the Agricultural college and elsewhere has won for him much commendation.

The public schools will be closed on Tuesday to give the pupils an opportunity to visit the fair. It will be known as Children's day.

Monday night will be ladies' night. Every woman will be admitted free who accompanies a man or woman with one paid admission ticket.

"Development of the English Drama" was given in Miss Kellogg's delightful manner. She stated the classic drama originated and terminated with the Greeks. But a story represented by action has been known in every civilization. At the dawn of modern civilization most countries of Christian Europe possessed a rude kind of theatrical entertainment, being representations of supernatural events of the Old and New Testaments, and were denominated miracle plays.

STATE PAYING FOR THE STRIKE

Eight-hour Trouble Is Costing Colorado Dearly.

FALLING OFF IN PRODUCTION

SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD INDEFINITELY.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 3.—Strikes and lockouts at the mines in Cripple Creek and other gold mining districts in Colorado have already reduced the mineral production of the state this year to about $2,500,000, and if the present conditions obtain until the end of the year the production will fall more than $5,000,000 below what it would have been under normal conditions. In consequence of the strike 1,000 soldiers of the Colorado national guard have been doing police duty in Cripple Creek for four weeks and as yet neither the mine owners nor the strikers show any evidence of weakening. The cost to the state of maintaining the military force in the field is estimated at $50,000 a month.

The cause of Trouble. The unsettled conditions in the mining industry are due to the failure of the legislature to enact an eight-hour law applying to mines, mills and smelters after the voters of the state had adopted a constitutional amendment authorizing such an enactment. An eight-hour day had been generally granted at the mines and the Western Federation of Miners determined to enforce the same condition in mills and smelters. Strikes were inaugurated last June at mines and smelters in this city and the mills in Colorado City, and eight weeks ago 4,000 miners in the Cripple Creek district were ordered by executive officers of the federation to go on strike in support of the demand for an eight-hour day for mill and smelter employees, which had been refused by the American Smelting & Refining company and the United States Reduction & Refining company. The miners obeyed the order, but reluctantly, as they had no grievance as to their own hours of labor or wages, and with few exceptions they have since continued on strike.

Federation Barred. The Mine Owners' association has announced that no further employment will be given to any members of the Western Federation of Miners. The Portland company, which owns and operates a mill for the treatment of its ores, made terms with the union and smelter employees, giving employment to about 500 men.

The Woods Investment company also continued to operate the Gold-Coin and Silver-Coin mines, but refused to give to its own mill but yielding to pressure from the Mine Owners' association, this company has now locked all its union miners out and joined in the association's fight against the Western Federation.

Several companies are operating their mines with non-union men, of whom it is difficult to keep accurate records. In the district, Officers of the miners' union assert that the number at work is much smaller and that most of those employed are laborers and not experienced miners.

Troops Called Out. Three weeks after the inauguration of the strike two men were murdered, assaulted by unknown men. Governor Peabody then sent troops to the camp in response to a request from the Mine Owners' association, which represented that many of the strikers would return to work if guaranteed protection. No violence has occurred since the soldiers took the field, but there have been many sensational incidents resulting from the actions of the military in making arrests and disregarding the civil authorities. Although martial law has not been declared, more than a dozen miners, including all the members of the executive committee of the strike, have been arrested and incarcerated in the guard house, otherwise known as the "bull pen," some of them being held there more than two weeks.

In habeas corpus proceedings District Judge W. P. Seeds decided that the military officers had exceeded their authority and ordered them to cease taking possession of his court room with an armed force during the hearing of the cases. After his decision was given the prisoners whom he had ordered released were taken back to the guard house, but were later set free by order of Governor Peabody.

Victims of Militia. Of all the union miners who have been thus imprisoned only President Charles G. Kenyon of the Victor miners' union has been charged with any crime. He was confined in the "bull pen" fifteen days, contracting pneumonia and was turned over to Sheriff Robertson the only offense charged against him was that of carrying concealed weapons.

The most sensational occurrence of this week has been the invasion of the Victor Record office and the seizure of the newspaper's entire force, including typewriter operators, because of the publication of a statement by a miner on duty in camp were ex-convicts. These prisoners were detained in the bull pen nearly twenty-four hours before charges of criminal libel were made against them in court.

Three thousand business men and citizens of Victor sent a petition to Governor Peabody for the recall of the troops. The governor refused, saying to the bearer:

"The militia will stay in the strike region until I am satisfied it is not needed."

Law Disregarded. Governor Peabody today instructed Generals Bell and Chase, his representatives in the field, not to accept service on any process, civil or criminal.

In addition to the troubles in Cripple Creek mining has been almost entirely suspended in the Telluride and Ophir districts, where about 1,500 miners and millmen were called out in order to enforce the demand for that eight-hour day. There have been no disturbances of the peace in those places and no troops are stationed there. Hundreds of strikers have left the state seeking work elsewhere.

PRINCESS TO WED.

Principal Sovereigns of Europe Will Be Present.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The wedding of the English Princess Alice of Battenberg to Prince Andrew, fourth son of the king of Greece, at Darmstadt, Wednesday next, will bring together in the little grand ducal city the sovereigns of twenty European states, great and small.

Princess Alice's grandaunt, Queen Alexandra of England, will be there, and her aunts, the czarina of Russia, the Archduchess Sergius of Russia, and Prince Andrew's grandfather, King Christian of Denmark; his father and mother and the reigning heads of half the German confederation will also be present. The father of Princess Alice, Prince Louis of Battenberg, captain of the British battleship Implacable, will, of course, witness the ceremony, with several British naval officers.

Princess Alice, who is 18 years of age, is described as being attractive. She is the third cousin of Prince Andrew, who is 27, through her father, and is second cousin through her mother. The wedding will take place at the castle of her cousin, the grand duke of Hesse-Darmstadt, who was first married to another of Princess Alice's relatives, Princess Victoria Melita, daughter of the late duke of Edinburgh. The high court of Hesse granted the grand duke a divorce in 1901 because of her lively temper. She was accustomed, when displeased, to throw table things of bric-a-brac at her husband.
